Translations.com

Position: Website ‘Engineer’ / Webmaster

As a web engineer, I maintain several (25+) client’s translated websites (each client often translates their site into multiple languages). I work from a UNIX-based virtual machine with a technology unique to the company. My duties include preparing website content to be translated, implementing the translations, and fixing bugs once the translations are implemented.

01/2010 – 05/2010
Orlando, FL

University of Central Florida – First Year Advising

Position: Webmaster

My time as webmaster was spent maintaining the 7 different websites hosted by the First Year Advising Office. I updated content, redesigned sites to run more efficiently using PHP ‘includes’ and databases, and completely redesigned three sites and logos from scratch. See my online portfolio for links.
